

Double lane closure on I-395 this weekend May 3-4

Drivers can expect double lane closures of the regular lanes along I-395 North this weekend, May 3-5, and additional lanes as needed on I-395 South from the Seminary Road interchange to past Pentagon City/Crystal City (Exit 8C) will close on Friday night at 10 p.m. through Saturday morning.

The ramp from Seminary Road to I-395 North also will close; motorists should follow detour signs. To help ease traffic impacts, the HOV lanes from just north of Edsall Road to the D.C. line will be open, traveling in the northbound direction. Thru-traffic (northbound to DC) is encouraged to use the HOV lanes, while local traffic will need to use the open regular lanes.

Additional closures may occur on the HOV lanes-only for ongoing construction activities after Saturday morning and throughout the remainder of the weekend. The closures are needed to accommodate the second of four planned weekends of bridge rehabilitation work along the corridor. All work is weather dependent and will be rescheduled if inclement weather occurs.

Please use alternative routes if possible. If traveling in this area, drivers should use caution and plan extra travel time. The 395 Express Lanes eight-mile northern extension are scheduled to open this fall. Learn how the 395 Express Lanes will work on our website and about how to get an E-ZPass here.

Safe Travels,

The Express Lanes Team
